

D Magazine

Things To Do In Dallas Tonight: Oct. 8

FrontBurner | by Liz Johnstone

The Real Story Behind the Real Story of Ladar Levison and...

FrontBurner | by Tim Rogers

Ai Weiwei Circle of Animals/Zodiac Heads: Gold

Crow Collection of Asian Art

2010 Flora St.

Dallas, TX 75201 Get Directions »

214-271-4485 (phone)

<http://www.crowcollection.org>

Category: Museums and Galleries

Neighborhood: Downtown

Dragon, Ai Weiwei (b.1957, China) Bronze with gold patina, 2010
Courtesy of www.crowcollection.com

Schedule

- October 2, 2013 10 am
- October 3, 2013 10 am
- October 4, 2013 10 am
- October 5, 2013 10 am
- October 8, 2013 10 am

Show More

PRICE

Free (Suggested donation: $7 for adults and $5 for seniors)

+ SHARE f t e ...

About

Chinese artist and activist Ai Weiwei has made headlines for his provocative pieces and criticism of the Communist Chinese government, words and works that have turned him into a sort of moral hero in the face of crackdowns and complacency. This particular series of twelve bronze, gilded animal head sculptures adheres to his Marcel Duchamp-inspired "readymade" aesthetic—examining what is real, a copy, and just fake. The form for each head, one for all the signs of the Chinese Zodiac, is taken from an Italian-designed fountain clock made for Yuanming Yuan, a summer palace built for the emperors of the Qing Dynasty. It was already a mix of European and Chinese styles, an appropriation in itself, and the Zodiac imagery can be both a powerful talisman to the past or cultural kitsch.